Meeting Theme

From Ideas to Action: Catalyzing Change in Academic General Internal Medicine

The 2025 SGIM Annual Meeting (SGIM25) focuses on the role of academic general internists in changing the healthcare landscape. Generalists at all levels must develop the practical skills to advocate and affect real-world change for their patients, hospitals, local communities, and their careers. It is only through translating our ideas into action and embracing change that we can improve the health of our communities through clinical care, education, and research.

Connect with Your Target Audience

Exhibiting at SGIM25 is an excellent way to connect with both SGIM members and non-members, offering a unique platform to promote your organization. Our attendees represent a diverse group from major medical schools, teaching hospitals, and community healthcare settings. You'll have the opportunity to engage with educators, researchers, healthcare providers, administrators, and health system leaders as they exchange insights, share innovative ideas, and showcase advancements. Attendees come to present, network, collaborate, and teach, while many are also eager to explore job opportunities and connect with institutions nationwide.
